Lows in teens ahead

Moderating temperatures and gray skies are forecast for Thursday through Saturday in Western Wayne

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported partly cloudy skies are forecast today with highs in the 30s and lows in the teens.

Cloudy skies will continue through Friday with highs rising to the 40s and lows in the 20s.

Possible rain and snow showers are due Saturday with highs again in the 40s and lows in the 30s.

Contest winds down

With the MCN $10,000 Auto Giveaway Contest drawing to a close, participants have just one more week to enter their names for the big prize.

The latest semi-finalists are Marlene Wellman of Wayne and Teddy Mimms of Inkster. Wellman's entry was deposited at Crestwood Dodge and Mimms' entry was deposited at Milliken

Other semi-finalists are Michele Haushalter of Wayne, Jeff Blackburn of Belleville, Sylvia Hrdzioszko of Northville, Tracy Martin of Inkster, Melanie Woodard of Wayne, Bernadine Murray of Taylor and Debbie Comerzan of Taylor.

The semi-finalist whose name is drawn next $10,000 toward the purchase or lease of a vehicle from one of the participating dealerships.

Budd takes new post

After resigning from her position as Van Buren Public Schools trustee, a post she has filled for eight years, Sharry Budd will take her new post as Van Buren Township treasurer on Nov.

State law does not permit an individual from holding two elected offices at the same time.

The school board vacancy must be filled before Dec. 1, or the Wayne County Regional Education Service Agency will appointment a trustee.

Those interested in filling the post until the June school election, may send a letter of application to the school district.

Dr. Bedell Expects pact signings soon

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Labor contracts with school employees hopefully should be approved by the end of the school year, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell stated last Thursday while appearing on "The Mayor's Chair" cable television pro-

Bedell appeared as a guest on Mayor William Oakley's monthly cable program and was quizzed on issues ranging from labor contracts to the creation of the new Romulus-Baron's Schools Inc. in Detroit.

Bedell pointed back to the passage of Proposal A that occurred while "the Romulus schools were on the road to becoming one of the richest school district's in the state."

In Romulus, the school district was getting about $3-$4 in taxes from industry for every $1 from the homeowner, Bedell said. With the passage of Proposal A that money went directly to the state with it's distribution going instead to many school district's outside the city.

Thus the district's revenues became more restrictive and made labor bargaining more difficult, he said.

'It is hard to ask teachers and others to work harder and longer, while being unable to promise pay hikes to match that effort. Stating that their jobs will remain secure is not a key issue at this time," Bedell emphasized. He admitted that the teachers' contract agreement make take a little longer than the support staff's.

His comments on the school of choice appear in an adjoining story.

On the issue of all day kindergarten classes, Bedell explained that the district saved $90,000 by eliminating midday busing needs. That money was reinvested by adding a halfday to the kindergarten classes and by hiring more paraprofessionals to aid teachers in the classes.

Bedell said he feels most parents and teachers are now in tune with the full day classes, similar to those in many other school districts to-

Romulus school battle continues

Fire alarm problems in the Romulus-Baron's school of choice building in Detroit forced the closing of the facility for up to 10 days last week by the Detroit Fire Marshall, Romulus Superintendent Dr. William Bedell revealed Mon-

The school, opened in September, has become somewhat controverial statewide, since it is being operated by a private company (Baron's School Inc.) and the Romulus school district within a different school district's territory.

A Circuit Court hearing on the issue (contained in a lawsuit filed by the Detroit School District) is slated for tomorrow in Judge Kathleen Mac-Donald's courtroom.

According to Bedell, the fire marshall claims current pull station fire alarms located in the middle of former Detroit Business Institute school building halls are deemed not adequate and thus need to be replaced by alarms nearer the doorways. Then the current alarm units need to be removed, he said.

Thus classes are to be closed down until these alarm' issues are cleared up and the court hearing is slated for Friday, Bedell informed the School Board this past Mon-

Twenty-second District State Rep. Gregory Pitoniak said last month that state legislators revealed that the "Romulus Schools' action is not what we had in mind when we created schools of choice." Thus Bedell, when questioned on Romulus Cable TV last Thursday, admitted he "miscalculated" the Detroit School District's reaction to the school of choice effort.

Bedell added since the Detroit School District is so opposed to the Romulus effort,

Oakley considering possible 'recount'

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Thirty-fourth District Court judicial candidate Brian Oakley, who apparently lost his bid to unseat incumbent Judge William Szlinis, has not ruled out a recount of the confused vote collection effort.

The certification of the vote totals is planned for early next week, after which Oakley has six days in which to decide whether to seek the recount of selected precincts in the cities of Romulus and Belleville and the townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren.

Oakley, a Romulus attorney and son of Mayor William Oakley, said the election results created a lot of excitement and will not be forgotten

"I'm not crying over spilt milk if it turns out I lost. But at the same time I'm not denying I would have preferred to have the majority vote. I met a lot of great people in recent months that I wouldn't have, if I didn't seek the judgeship," Oakley

He and his support team are looking at all options, Oakley said, and will make a decision once the votes are certified.

According to current figures Oakley lost by a little more than 200 votes. An early count by the Wayne County Election Department claimed Oakley instead had won by about 50 votes. That vote count however, county officials said, was missing some late votes from Van Buren and Sumpter Townships.

Thus confusing newsstand reports rippled through Romulus last Thursday. The Romulus Roman published a report that Szlinis apparently won, despite some votes still to be counted and both Detroit dailies published the erroneous county figures stating that Oakley had eked out a

A heavy crowd of voters (7,517) turned out last week to help elect a Democratic slate of candidates from President Clinton on down to State Rep. Gregory Pitoniak and supported casino and football stadium issues.

The voters turned out early and steady throughout the day and also gave strong backing to Democrats U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, Congresswoman Lynn Rivers, Prosecutor John D. O'Hair, Sheriff Robert Ficano and other Democratic incum-

Republican County Commissioner Bruce Patterson, who was running unopposed also pulled 3,110 votes.

In addition Romulus voters gave their hometown attorney Brian Oakley a total of 3,513 votes to incumbent Judge William Szlinis' 2,371. Szlinis however won the overall judicial vote by over 200 votes.

One of the ironies of the judicial battle was that nearly 1,700 voted for neither candidate, possibly because the local contest was on the bottom of a long list of other Circuit and Probate Court judicial races that bore names the voters were not familiar with entirely.

Sheila Manning of Romulus, who sought a Circuit Court bench position, nearly won, finishing 13th out of 18 candidates. The top 12 were elected.

On the various state proposals, Romulus voters opposed the bingo proposal, 4,214-2,194; and supported the veterans' proposal 5,065-1,181 and the Detroit casino proposal 4,343-2667. The bingo request was defeated statewide, and the veterans and casino issues were approved statewide.

Despite City Council opposition local voters also supported the County Lion Stadium fees for hotels, motels and rental cars by a vote of 3,627-2,987. The proposal also passed countywide.

we quickly realized that we needed the help of the children in the community.

Last year's Holiday Mural was a huge success and we would like to repeat it again this year, but we need your help. From Thanksgiving to December 21 every child and young adult who comes into the library will be asked to add their own personal drawing to the Holiday Mural.

As the rolled sheets of drawing paper are filled up, we will hang them behind the circulation desk for all the patrons to admire like they did last year.

We had a wide variety of holiday scenes and pictures displayed and everyone enjoyed them, especially the families and friends of our young

All you have to do is decide what you would like to draw, and come in and do it. We have crayons, markers, and glitter available for you to complete your art work.

Also on Saturday, December 7, at 10:30 a.m. we will have our annual Christmas Tree Trim. You are invited to help us string popcorn and cranberries, make paper chains, and create an original ornament for the tree in the library.

If you have an ornament from home that you would like to donate to the library tree, that would be great also. Decorating the tree can be a big job, but with many helping hands it will be a lot of fun.

Holiday videos available are: Christmas Stories, C-593; The Nativity, CH-425; A child's Christmas in Wales, CH-91; Sing Along Christmas, CH- 92; The Night Before Christmas, CH-324; and the Disney Classic, The Small One, CH-394. Come in and check them out for your families' enjoyment.

The entire staff of the Romulus Public Library wishes the communities of Romulus and Huron Township a happy and healthy holiday season.

Vining project update Tuesday

An updated report on the Vining road development project will be given to Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce members next Tuesday at the Shoney Hotel in Romulus.

Wayne Doran, chairman of the Ford Motor Land Service Corp., will outline recent progress at the luncheon. Those planning to attend the luncheon need to contact the chamber office by Friday.

Native American talk slated

An area Native American speaker will discuss local Indian history and display various artifacts to those attending the pre- Thanksgiving session at the Romulus Public Library at 7 p.m. Nov.

Shelley DeLano, children services librarian, said the speaker will be Two Feathers of the outpost of New Boston. The program is free.

Patterson, Hoffman cited by board

Former Romulus School Board members Pat Patterson (12 years) and Debra Hoffman (four years) were cited by the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education on Monday night.

The pair were honored for their past services to the school district and for their "powerful influence for good and the growth and progress of the district."

Trip to France OK'd for students

The Romulus School board approved a 15-day trip to France for local French students this spring.

The planned trip according to teacher Rosa Russenberger will occur during spring break in 1997 and will include students spending time with French families.

Cheerleaders finish second in contest

Romulus Middle School cheerleaders finished second at the Universal Cheerleading Association Competition on Oct. 27 at the University of Michigan.

New coaches to be hired

Four new sports coaches and three replacement coaches are slated to be hired by the Romulus School District, Athletic Director Jesse Meriweather revealed.

The coaches for new district teams will be for seventh grade basketball and volleyball and ninth grade boys basketball and girls volleyball.

The replacement coaches will be for the following existing teams: junior varsity football and wrestling teams and varsity wrestlers.

Citizens honored

Three Romulus citizens have been sent certificates of appreciation for assisting the Romulus Police Department during 1995. The certificates were signed by Mayor William Oakley.

Lesta Gersky was cited for her efforts on June 14, 1995, when she alerted police during a burglary attempt at a neighbor's house. The certificate reported "through your efforts that subject was apprehended."

David Green was praised for providing police with identifying two subjects, who were responsible for over 30 acts of malicious destruction of property within the city of Ro-

Diane Somers was recognized for "efforts and compassion displayed at the scene of a serious injury accident on the night of Nov. 17, 1995."

he expects the state legislature to change the school of choice provisions prior to the next school year.

The Romulus superintendent said his first concern was to add revenue for the local school system, while aiding potentially thousands of other Wayne County residents who had previously dropped out of schools.

Early on the Romulus school leaders called it a "winwin" situation, while Detroit School District officials called it an act of "school piracy." The Detroit School lawsuit was originally to be heard last Friday, but was postponed until tomorrow by MacDonald.

The lawsuit was filed to close down the school of choice because it will ultimately "destroy the educational integrity of public education in Michigan," Detroit Schools charge.

The Detroit Schools claim Baron's offers "a shoddy, substandard product" and the organization itself "is not incorporated at all, let alone (being) one which has satisfied the additional requirements for becoming an educational corporation.'

The vote count discomfort was compounded by the fact that 1,700 residents of Romulus appear to have passed over voting in the local judge's race, because it was at the tail end of numerous other state and county judicial contests that many voters were not familiar with.

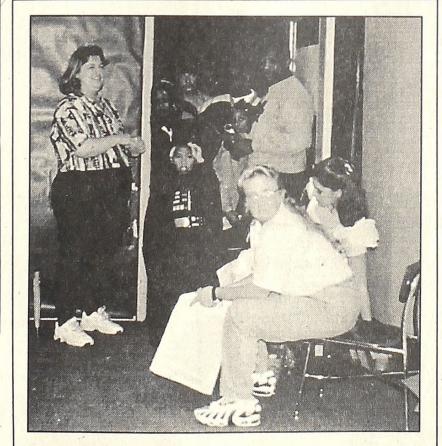

Huron Township voters were plaqued with voting machine breakdowns and thus many voters had to cast their ballots on paper.

This created critical Huron Township ballot counting problems for election workers and reportedly local police had to be called in to keep the workers on the job on Wednesday until the counting was completed.

was a cost assessment of $850,000 for the project that would have seriously impacted area taxpayers.

Thus Wayne County workers cleaned the ditches, the city's Department of Public Works employees hauled the debris away and the school district took down the old fencing and replaced it with new fencing.

The city and schools expect to work out some combined taxing projects in the near future that will keep local tax money in Romulus. One of those tax projects relates to improved recreational facilities and programs, Oakley

Show host Gwen Sibert said Bedell may be invited back to the program in the near future for either a half hour or hour in length.

Did party lever kill votes?

With the news that up to 1,700 Romulus voters mistakenly did not vote in the recent 34th District Court judge's race, political leaders and pundits are wondering what can be done to make sure that does not happen again.

Most feel that the voting vacuum was accidental in a majority of the cases, probably because the ballot itself was excessively long.

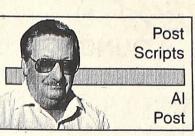

Others say that it happened because of the candidates' (incumbent District Judge William Szlinis and challenger Brian Oakley) placement on the ballot, at the tail end of a number of little known Circuit and Probate Court candidates.

There is no end of guessing as to how the poll results would have come out if all or at least most of those 1,700 had indeed cast their ballots in the judge's race.

Being that the judge's race was a non-partisan selection, some speculate that voters might have punched the Democratic or Republican straight party choice line and then jumped to the ballot questions. thinking that they had also voted for their choice either Szlinis or Oakley.

The other test will be to see if other communities suffered similar problems in local judicial or other contests.

CASINO VOTE---Now that the voters statewide have approved casino gambling for Detroit, it will be interesting to see how much extra occupancy will occur at Romulus based hotels and motels.

Will the fear of downtown Detroit be abated for multiday visitors or will they seek out "the safer" suburban areas for housing needs, such as in the Romulus style hotels.

Will free busing to the casinos become one of the deciding factors?

Romulus voters gave heavy support to the casinos in a close election. Do they deserve a payback? ABORTION ISSUE ---

Supporting President Clinton's veto of the partial birth abortion ban was expected to hurt the re-election chances of Congresswoman Lynn Rivers, but it didn't.

It fact it didn't seem to hurt any of the veto supporters this year. Partially because of the fact Democratic TV campaign spots successfully put the reverse English on the issue, claiming that pro- life candidates were "extremists and out of touch with the mainstream." A little scarey for this writer's

MR. CHAIRMAN--One potential plus for the Romulus area voters in 1997 could be the promotion of veteran State Rep. Gregory Pitoniak to a committee chairmanship. Committee chairmanships go to the majority party and since the Democrats have retaken the Michigan House of Representatives, Pitoniak seems to be in line for one of those chairmanships, particularly since this will be Pitoniak's last term in the House.

The key question will be whether the committee post will be a major one or not! FONTES CAREER CHANGE--Some area sports enthusiasts feel it is time for a career change for Lions head Coach Wayne Fontes. The more light- hearted feel Fontes should head for Hollywood.

They don't feel he quite fits the role of the Ling King. They smile and feel his career (particularly in the last three to five years) fits him more for the role of a weatherman if Hollywood decides to remake Groundhog Day.

Lookout Wayne don't step into that deep puddle again. Any other suggestions?

Romulus alumni impressed

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Romulus High School alumni members of the Class of 1966 returned home recently to express excitement over the upgrades at their old school, alumni director Marge Bergman revealed.

Seeing the $5 million athletic facility and new technology being used by local students made the alumni members proud of Romulus High all over again, Bergman said.

The alumni, who had returned for their 30th anniversary homecoming weekend, toured the school facility that Saturday and were given a verbal update on the school's technology by Phil Rossman, school computer technician.

Two former sports captains, Lionel Walker of the wrestling team and Lloyd Ward of the basketball team, "drooled" upon seeing the new sports complex, Bergman said.

The Class of 1966 had a number of members who have become successful outside the area, Bergman said, including Ward, who is president of May-tag Appliances; Mark English, owner of a Detroit area architectural firm; Sam Smith a Michigan prosecuting attorney; Dorothy Visgar, a Chrysler Corp executive; and Dr. Karen Budan, an executive director of curriculum for Airport Schools.

Bergman said many other former classmates are happily married, still live in the Romulus area and send their children to local schools.

The alumni association started five years ago, just enrolled its 500th member, she

Don't mind me, but 'm going to ramble on about the election...

Two major trends I noticed - female candidates did not take as many seats nationwide as they did two years ago, although in Michigan they fared extremely well AND... the "wild card" for candidates who wanted to expose their opponent's dirty laundry was the number of times he or she missed voting in elections.

With all the technology in our midst it's amazing to me that Szlinis beat Oakley by some news accounts and Oakley beat Szlinis in others. When the Free Press had Oakley the winner Wednesday afternoon, I was all over our election reporter Al Post for printing Szlinis's win. However, it was determined someone counted wrong and Szlinis was declared the winner in the 34th District judge race.

The same stupid thing happened in Oakland County when Democratic candidate for prosecutor Steve Kaplan was declared the winner early Wednesday morning only to receive a phone call from County Clerk Lynn Allen a few hours later indicating a tired election worker had not placed enough zeros on the Troy count of Republican Joe Goryca. The mistake cost Kaplan the election.

And can you believe the computer snafu in Westland? Some voters waited up to four hours to punch their picks in on a computer screen that witnesses said was extremely slow. Many precincts were handed emergency paper ballots because problems with the computers could not be corrected. Here's a case where technology screwed the works up. I'm told the city will be evaluating the problem soon. I suggest the result of the evaluation ought to be a return to punch cards.

Democrats obviously fared much better than Republicans in Western Wayne. Joe Fitzsimmons poured over a million bucks into a Congressional seat only to get clobbered by Democratic freshman Lynn Rivers, who many feared would lose her seat. Just north of the Rivers' district, Debbie Stabenow made mincemeat of Gingrich's favorite son, Dick Chrysler. Again, the final tally was not even close. Some thought Dennis Le Maitre would knock off Democratic incumbent Eileen DeHart for the Westland state representative post. Not even close. De-Hart lambasted the Chamber of Commerce president.

In fact, the only Republican to win in a contested race was State Representative Deb Whyman (Canton). It was thought she would walk to a win over little known Deb Nesbit. But the race was close — Whyman winning by a little more than 2,000 votes.

I found it quite incredible that Democrats were able to capture the State House. I thought they had a good chance of capturing Congress (they fell far short), but I thought Engler's influence would carry the GOP to victory statewide. Not a single candidate Engler openly campaigned for in a tight race won. Ronna Romney went down. Dole was slaughtered in Michigan. His Supreme Court candidate Hilda Gage lost. Chrysler, who listed Michelle Engler as the head of his campaign, lost. The list goes on and on. Obviously Engler was one of the biggest losers this election. Don't count him out in 1998, however.

I guess the real lesson to be learned in this election is that voters favored the status quo. Very few incumbents were bounced from office. We stuck with our familiar president, Bill Clinton. But as a whole we also voted to continue the GOP's grip in Congress. In Van Buren, voters returned the Democratic slate of officers that has governed that township for years. In Romulus, Van Buren and Sumpter, voters stuck with the familiar judge, Szlinis, despite another very familiar name on the ballot, Oakley. In Westland and Inkster, voters chose their incumbents DeHart and Beard to continue. Ditto Kelly in Wayne. And, don't forget Whyman in Canton.

As much as we moan about our government, it obviously takes a great deal to make us change. 1996 will be remembered as the year when "throwing the bums" out was really passe.

Education evaluated

To the editor:

I am a senior citizen, graduated from a teachers' college; ran a worldwide operation for a large company, and now with my wife, own a successful small business. I work six days per week, pay social security, believe the best is ahead of us for our children and our country. If we can get the corner on education our children, with a good education, hard work and integrity can have successful and happy futures.

The manor onus for a good education depends for the most part on the mothers. The incentive to write to the editor was our President claiming how hard he worked on education and now he is going to dole out money for junior college. If I read the news right the country is clamoring for changes in education because we're doing so poorly. Will your kids get far enough in education to qualify for junior college?

As a small business owner we are disappointed in the lack of basic education by many of the high school graduates we look at for employment.

Mothers, what's wrong with doing away with the Federal Department of Education? They only suck funds from your local schools. We send money to Washington to pay the bureaucrats. They send back mandates that cost us more money!

I'm not against unions. My father belonged to a union for over 40 years. I'm against the dictators at the top of the unions. Those who can assess their membership to use against the political candidate that many of their members are going to vote for. All union members should ask for their money back! The unions have made it next to impossible to weed out the poor teachers. I was lucky. I had very good teachers. One of the things that has stuck with me all these years; a simple fact — If the student hasn't learned the teacher hasn't taught.

Mothers, you should make sure your children are proficient in reading. Not just speed reading but include comprehension. Our children should be tested for reading skills by the third

I just brought up another point, tests. This is another area in education that has fallen by the wayside over the years. A test is one of our greatest tools in teaching. A teacher today will give a test with trick questions, or a pop quiz in order to scare the students into studying more.

Instead of giving a test to evaluate what is being learned, they are using them for grading purposes only. I was taught the proper use of a test is to find out if what we taught was absorbed. Teachtest-reteach-retest, etc. If the subject is worthy of being in the curriculum, it is worthy of being learned.

They tell us we shouldn't look at the past, but it is necessary. Clinton had 12 years as governor of Arkansas. They had Hillary to do special work on education. Where does Arkansas rank in terms of education? If you look it up you can't get closer to the bottom. That's pretty scary when you look at your children and their future. Most important, please vote. My wife of 55 years and I have made an effort to vote every time - you see, we had six children.

Airport too noisy

To the editor: What is wrong with our Wayne County officials?

It is bad enough that we have noise-oppressed citizens, who are designated for noise relief due to the Dec. 1992 Noise Compatibility Plan F.A.R. Part 150 Study, who are within the 65+ decibel level; and Wayne County officials refuse to pay! It is bad enough that we have

Ed McNamara pushing his $1.684 billion expansion of Metro Airport on us, with no new noise relief money set aside for citizens, supposedly because the noise contour map was made static and "frozen in time in 1992;" and will offer no additional (post-w 1992) noise relief to any citizens, stat no matter how much more air mito traffic there will be! All Ed Mc-Namara is giving us is dirt (berms)! Now comes Jim Murray at the Wayne County Department of Environment, proposing the "new, improved," solid waste management plan!

Is Mr. Murray trying to "drum of to up business" for the "new, improved," CWCSA incinerator, by forcing communities in inciner-v 67 ate their trash, when we have all this empty landfill space at Carleton Farms? Who is supposed not to use the Carleton Farms Landfill - only Canadians? Will part of Idas the $1 million bonus earmarked for CWCSA, trickle down to the Mayne County Department of Environment? Any Wayne County Commissioner who is in favor of this plan or to will be put on my "endangered 67 commissioner's list" the next time they are up for re-election~! I want to suggest to you Wayne County "solicitors of burning," that if you force Romulus to incinerate "our" trash, (and charge `us" 1 mil to do so), or if you force Romulus to site a new landfill, (when Carleton Farms has 50 years left), then perhaps we" might have grounds to file a class action lawsuit against

With all the empty landfill space available in Carleton Farms, I feel it amounts to "heresy" for Wayne County officials to even suggest that we incinerate our trash, and thus pollute Wayne County's air with heavy metals; and what you are suggesting for Wayne County, our county, in my opinion, amounts to treason! Mr. Murray, could it be that you object to Governor Engler's push for the Carleton Farms expansion because it interferes with your plan to push the CWCSA Incinerator? If the landfill space at Carleton Farms was more limited, you would have a much easier case for the incinerator, wouldn't you, Mr. Murray?

It's not that I am so in favor of landfills, but if we aren't using Carleton Farms, Canadians will be! This is how things appear to me, from where I sit, (in Romulus). If you try to push CWCSA Incinerator down our throats, I might be seeing you in court!

Perhaps, Western Wayne County should secede from Wayne County proper; perhaps, we should secede from Wayne County officials unwise decrees, omissions and propositions, (S for stupid)!

Education threatened

To the editor:

It isn't bad enough that teachers have thrown phonics in the closet and are passing out condoms to eighth graders. Former NEW president Catherine Barrett and other NEA scions have suggested that the teaching of basic skills should be no more than 25 percent of classroom instruction; they hope to accomplish this abortion of learning by the year

National Education Association staffers think teachers should be able to spend most of the time in the classroom conveying values, acting as philosophers to change, to alter the curriculum to promote the goals of mandated community service and the ideology of government benevolence. The Education Acts identifies "standards for all children" and the National Educational Goals press for compulsory demonstrated community ser-

Local control of education remains very important if academic basics are to be emphasized. Recent reports identify the NEA as very interested in Saul Alinsky's "Rules for Radicals" as the organization's "bible" to effect the change liberals think necessary to lead our children to the mantra of big government and shared assets.

Local control of education is absolutely necessary to steer clear of learning nationalization. Socialism has been identified as a failure. We need to identify the free market, free enterprise system to be as important a part of our heritage and way of life as we exalt our republic, democratic principles, representative government, and the rule of law.

Bingo still on

To the editor:

I want to thank Michigan Community Newspapers for their support on Proposal A, which was a proposal to put the Metro Wayne Democratic Club out of business as of Nov.

Well, the "no" vote was successful and we are still in business, thanks to all of the residents of the Wayne-Westland area. Without your support, we would have been out of business as of Nov. 30.

We still run bingo every Thursday at the Joy Manor Bingo Hall on Joy Road and Middlebelt.

Now, with your support on Nov. 5, we will be able to support our community programs, such as Little League Baseball in Wayne and contribute to the Special Olympics, scholarships at our local high schools, food distribution to the seniors and needy people in the Wayne area plus food at Christmas time and many other things we do for the community.

You, the people who voted for us on Nov. 5 made this possible, and for this we thank you from the bottom of our heart. Thanks again and have a great Thanksgiving and happy holi-

Cliff Johnson, president Metro Wayne Democratic

Editor's note: If passed, Proposal A would have banned all political organizations from sponsoring fund-raising bingos.

Retired pharmacist, 84, dies

Well known retired pharmacist and local business owner, John L. (Jack) O'Brien, 84, died Oct. 5 due to lung cancer.

Mr. O'Brien, a 1934 graduate of the University of Michigan Pharmacy School, and his father were former owners of O'Brien Drugs in Wayne from 1908 to 1967. After selling his store in 1967, he worked as a relief pharmacist at several locations until his retirement two years ago at the age of 82.

During his life, Mr. O'Brien was very active with various committees and organizations which included three terms as Nankin Township trustee, 20 years of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority board of directors, and as a member of the board of community directors of the National Bank of Detroit.

He was also a member of Notre Dame Council of the Wayne dollmaker to publish repair book

Although she is a doctor, her healing tactics are a little different from most physicians. She often uses her sewing box to mend a patient's arm or conduct a hair transplant. Some of her patients are more than 120 years old and originate from various countries including France, England and China.

She is Dr. Joyce Murch or better known as "Doctor of Dollmaking, Educator."

Murch was the second person in the U.S. to receive this prestigious recognition through the Doll Artisan Guild. The self-taught Wayne resident has introduced many unique techniques including the art of making movable eyes for reproductive antique dolls and restoring museum-quality dolls that have flaws to perfec-

A new antique doll repair book is headed for the store shelves in 1997 and is coauthored by Murch and her husband, Mason. Murch's dollmaking and repair techniques have inspired so many dollmakers around the world that she is invited throughout the year to give seminars in Europe, China, Belgium and many other countries.

"My husband created the porcelain eye with an iris that became so popular we were shipping them all over the world," said Murch.

This passion for dollmaking began 19 years ago for Murch with the birth of her daughter, Andrea. After attending a craft show where she witnessed a dollmaker assemble a porcelain doll, Murch bought her first cloth doll kit and has never stopped creating the unique collectibles.

"I was absolutely blown away by the dollmaking process," said Murch. "I was inspired by Mildred Seeley who is known as the 'Mother of Dollmakers'. She wrote several books on how to make porcelain dolls. At that time there weren't too many dollmakers in the country. As she would write a book, I would memorize it. She and her husband, Vernon, started a dollmaking company in New York. They were making doll molds and selling them. I eventually became a distributor for their products."

Murch purchased the necessary tools to create dolls including a kiln and lots of material to make a wide variety of clothes and wigs. She didn't want to make dollmaking just a hobby. She was preparing to enter the business world as a dollmaker.

In 1977 Murch joined the Doll Artisan Guild and began organizing dollmaking seminar programs. In order to conduct seminars, however, she knew she had to open a store.

"I opened a shop in Westland called 'Dolls By Joyce'," she said. "The shop was opened for five years until I moved to another location in Westland at a house which was used for commercial purposes. I started getting doll enthusiasts from all over the country coming to the seminars. I eventually travelled around the world through the Doll Artisan Guild conducting seminars on dollmaking."

Murch said her favorite aspect of dollmaking is working with antique reproduction dolls. She can take an antique doll which has a face nearly broken apart and can rebuild it so the repairs are not visible even with the naked eye.

"My favorite antique dolls are the French," said Murch. "Some of those dolls have sold for $150,000 or are in museums because of their limited production. The Rochard Dolls are the most rare and the ones you are most likely to see in museums. They have a series of pictures displayed from shoulder to shoulder on the front of their chest area. It's very unique."

Murch became a doll instructor in 1983 for the Doll Artisan Guild. Her seminars are so intriguing that they capture the attention of not only women but also husband and wife teams who are interested in starting a business in dollmaking.

'We have a certified school of dollmaking which is accredited by the New York Board of Regions," said Murch. "It is recognized throughout the U.S. and Europe. I helped to create all the curriculum for the school and I wrote the instructions. manual. I have been teaching the dollmaking process and traveling around able to current dollmakers and not beginners, according to Murch. Participants can also be members of the Doll Artisan Guild.

Is Murch living the American dream?

"This is definitely like a dream," she said. "I never envisioned I would be having a business of my own that I enjoy so much. It's taking me around the world, and the best part is I get to be with my best friend. The only problem I have is there is never enough time to do it all."

We're a great team.

Murch said she has never advertised to draw students to her dollmaking seminars. All the participants have followed her through the years from when she first opened the doors to her doll shop in West-ated a series of instructional learn their one-of-a-kind techniques.

Cotham, and his mother, Darnell, have expanded the antique shop into two adjacent shops which feature a wide array of collectibles and antiques. The "dean" of the antique dealers in Wayne is George Sanders, (bottom right) who has operated an antique shop and auction gallery in Wayne for the past five years. Wayne shop owners deal in antiques, collectibles

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER MCN Managing Editor

11121 WAYNE ROAD LUS, MICH. 48174

Although no one quite knows why, the array of antique shops in Wayne is one of its best kept secrets.

In fact, if measured by square feet, the amount of floor space in the city's shops would probably exceed those of the far northern suburban shops that label themselves as "antique centers."

The shops, many of which are in buildings of historic significance, are located in a city that honors its history with a museum and an active historical society.

George Sanders, owner of Sanders Antiques and Auction Gallery, is the undisputed leader of Wayne's antique community based on his length of ownership - five years - and the size of his store - 23,000 square feet.

"During the past five years, I've expanded into the second floor and then into the lower level," Sanders said.

His shop is located at 35188 Michigan Ave. in a building well suited to the display of antiques. Large displays of furniture, China, lamps, clocks, jewelry, toys and items of memorabilia are grouped in various areas.

In the lower level, similar items are placed in rooms in a museum-like fashion and murals of old-fashioned scenes are painted on the walls.

"I'd like to see the antique businesses in Wayne work together to promote the city as a place for collectors and shoppers to visit," Sanders said, noting that some efforts have been made in the past to promote the Wayne antique stores as a group. However, he added, those who collect antiques will travel many miles to find a particular item or to complete a collection, and they find their way to Wayne from all over the

"People don't realize how large the antique business community is here in Wayne, and I believe we should be telling them about it," he said. "This is a great location for antique businesses because of the long history of the city -the setting is right."

Dave Cotham, who operates Village Mall with his mother, Darnell Cotham, describes their shop at the corner of Wayne Road and Glenwood Avenue as featuring "a bit of everything."

Part of the building was formerly the North Side Pharmacy, and the Cothams have preserved the storage cupboards from the old pharmacy and scraped away the tile floors to uncover the original oak flooring.

"The next door portion was once an NBD Bank. We've got the old vault - it's so heavy that it will be there always," he said. "The old pharmacy also has a tin ceiling that we are very proud of."

The next step for the fiveyear-old business will be to open a coffee shop at the rear of the store - a move that the Cothams hope will inspire shoppers to stroll through the streets of Wayne and then stop for refreshments.

'We have an assortment of furniture and glassware and a bit of everything. People are always looking for something to add to their collections. In fact, a man came in recently looking for something IRSrelated. That was the first time I've heard of anyone collecting IRS memorabilia," Cotham Cotham said he recalls some efforts being made to promote the Wayne antique stores as a group, and looks forward to any ideas that will boost Wayne's image as an antique community.

Mike Bacon, owner of Blue Willow Antiques at 34840 Michigan Ave., has been in the antique business for 15 years, four of which in Wayne.

"I live in Wayne and I like the small town atmosphere. That's why I have my business here," Bacon said.

Bacon, who has a large collection of Blue Willow pattern china on display in the shop, named his store for his collection.

"Just about everyone is familiar with Blue Willow and they associate it with something that has been around for a long time, so I though it would be a good name for my business," said Bacon who operates the store with Thomas Moody.

The shop features oak furniture, pottery, glassware, sets of dishes, old books and toys.

Bacon believes that the antique shops in Wayne are a "drawing card" for shoppers and would like to see more promotion of them.

"Everyone likes to shop in more than one place in a town.

I know I do. I want variety," Bacon said. "Wayne has a lot to offer collectors and antique buyers."

The three shops are the "tip of the iceberg." Many other shops in the city feature antiques and collectibles - truly making the city an "antique community."

A mural, with an 18th century theme, sets the stage for antique displays.

WEDDINGS

Kienman-Teague

Janice Ann Kienman of Westland and Bobby Gerald Teague of Garden City are planning a Nov. 23 wedding.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Virginia Kienman and the late Robert Kienman. She is a graduate of John Glenn High School and Schoolcraft Community College. She works as executive secretary for the assistant superintendent of administration for the Wayne-Westland Schools.

The groom-to-be is the son of Nila Teague and the late Eugene Teague. He is a 1971 graduate of Garden City East High School. He is an E.S.S.P representative for UAW-Ford at the Wayne assembly plant.

The wedding will take place at the First Congregational Church of Wayne with the reception at Plymouth Manor. They will honeymoon in Miami and then take a cruise in the Bahamas.

Kwanzaa!

Author writes with warmth, wisdom

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER MCN Managing Editor

Jump at the sun; you may not land on the sun, but at least you'll be off the ground" -- Traditional proverb.

Dorothy Winbush Riley's writings reflect the warmth of a mother and grandmother and the preciseness and completeness of a former librarian.

Her book, The Complete Kwanzaa, gives what it promises - a comprehensive view of the holiday with its history, guidelines for the celebration, inspirational stories of African-Americans and recipes for the seven-day event.

"Most of the other books on Kwanzaa are craft books which don't go into detail about the holiday itself," she Riley, a librarian and administrator for the Detroit Public Schools for 26 years, is currently principal of Higgins Elementary School on the city's far southwest side. She is also the editor of My Soul Looks Back 'Less I Forget: A Collection of Quotations from People of Color.

It was the book of quotations that prompted Riley to write her current book.

"People were asking me what quotations would be good to use for their Kwanzaa celebrations. And, there were other questions that people posed to me, like, 'What is the number seven used in Kwanzaa?' and what kinds of stories could be told to children during Kwanzaa," Riley

Because of her 18 years of experience as a librarian, Riley wanted to research and provide the answers to those and other questions.

"It is just my nature to want to find the information to answer the questions," Riley said

Kwanzaa is not a replacement for Christmas -- a holiday she and her family continue to celebrate -- but an African- American holiday that is observed from Dec. 26 through Jan. 1.

"It is a holiday when we can do for each other, rather than to have an emphasis on gifts. Our values change, but what lasts are memories, time, consideration and continuity," Riley said. "Kwanzaa helped me to center on my family and pull away from material gifts. Kids don't remember the doll or the Nintendo that they received as gifts, but they do retain memories and treasure the time that they spent with their families."

Kwanzaa was originated in 1966 by Dr. Maulena Karenga and included seven principles: unity, self-determination, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, purpose, creativity and faith. These are represented with seven symbols expressed in Swahili: mazao (fruits, vegetables and nuts), mkeka (place mat), kinara (candleholder), vibunzi (ear of corn), zawadi (gifts), kikombe cha umoja (communal cup of unity) and mishumbaa saba (seven candles).

Riley explained that "The stories that I include ment," said Riley.

in the book are short ones which will hold a child's attention," said Riley, who included stories titled, "The Mule of Faith," "A Parable of the Corn" and "Fire on the Mountain" in her book.

Also included in her book are inspirational stories about Martin Luther King Jr., Maya Angelou, Booker T. Washington, Whoopi Goldberg and former Inkster resident Don Bar-

She titles the chapter about Barden, "Springboard to Suc-

"He was one of 13 children, and so am I," said Riley. "I admire how he sprang from one venture to another with each move a springboard to a new and more successful venture."

Barden, the CEO of Barden Communications, believed the way to success was through education, Riley said. However, financial problems forced him to drop out of Central State University in Ohio.

Riley noted that Barden did odd jobs until he saved enough to open his own record store and then a nightclub that attracted top entertainers. In 1968, Barden sold both businesses and opened a public relations firm and then became involved in real estate development. Eventually, he bought shares in cable franchises and founded Barden Cable.

"Don Barden's life demonstrates that with planning, hard work, self- determination, economics, faith, confidence and risk taking, you can be a successful entrepreneur," said Riley.

Although her emphasis is not on material items for herself, she does have one wish that she hopes can be fulfilled.

"I've got one holiday wish for playground equipment for our school. We're located by a cemetery and the salt mine outside of the Enterprise Zone - and I'd like to see our children have playground equip-

Tips can help shoppers select right gifts

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER MCN Managing Editor

It's time for Christmas shoppers -- those who haven't already begun their round of shops and malls -- to start the most critical part of their giftgiving plans.

Like many other important endeavors, planning is the key to success, and a good strategy for Christmas shopping is to take time to make a shopping list. After all, doesn't even Santa, the most popular giftgiver of them all, make a list and check it twice?'

While it may take some extra time to make a shopping list (including alternates) before heading for the stores, shoppers should balance this amount of time against extra trips to search for "the perfect present," standing in line at check-outs and driving around parking lots to find a space as the holiday draws near. In addition, no one ever forgets the fleeting look of horror on the face of the disappointed gift recipient as she or he opens the gift and then smiles and murmurs, "Oh, it's lovely. Thank you so much."

First, Christmas is not the time to shock someone into resenting what the giver believes the individual should do

For example, a woman who doesn't normally wear makeup, will not suddenly bloom into a Sharon Stone or even a Tammy Faye Bakker if she is presented with a complete make-up case -- even through the gift- giver is sure that she would look 10 times as attractive if she wore make-up.

The same rationale applies to the workaholic. Just because he receives a set of golf clubs for Christmas, he probably won't take a sunny June afternoon off from work to play a round of golf.

Then, what can one do? The answer is to simply focus on what the individual does and enjoys-- his or her hobby or special interest.

The woman who spurns make-up, may be a voracious reader, a avid gardener or a gifted crafts person, thus the perfect gift would be something related to her special interest. Likewise, the workaholic would probably prefer something to make his office environment more efficient or pleasant than a gift that would take him away from

Many gift-givers are uncertain about the propriety of giving money or gift certificates to family members, and the answer depends on the circumstances involved. For example, if one knows that a young relative is struggling to pay college tuition and expenses, what better gift could there be other than a monetary one? Or, if teens or young adults are avid movie fans, gift certificates for movie admission would probably be as welcome as any other present.

Because money or gift certificates are impersonal in themselves, it is best to include a personal note with the monetary gift. A small gift also could accompany the envelope to give it a more personal touch.

Young children can be difficult to buy for, because their interests change as quickly as their clothing sizes. One's best strategy is to ask the parents. The gift-giver may know that his or her young niece is a Pocahontas fan, but probably doesn't know that she already his or her young niece is a Pocahontas fan, but probably doesn't know that she already has almost every imaginable Pocahontas-related item on the market.

Before you make your Christmas list, watch and listen for hints - not necessarily the ones that begin with "I would really like to have ... Observe the items your friends and family members use, be aware of their hobbies and interests and note whether they have collectibles.

Gear your shopping list around Aunt Jane's needlepoint, Uncle Bob's miniature car collection, Grandma's porcelain cats and Cousin Ann's interest in poetry. Keep in mind that one who collects antiques or memorabilia would probably rather have an addition to his or her collection than any other type of gift.

The best gifts are those that show that the giver took care to select the present with the receiver in mind. Thus, if you truly know the recipient, you will not purchase an expensive box of chocolates for someone on a diet, or buy a blue robe for someone whose favorite color is red.

The well-prepared shopper should not only be able to complete his or her shopping quickly, but should be able to select gifts that are pleasing

With the holidays close at hand, individuals need to take a tip from these women at Greenfield Village and begin preparations early. MCN

Retailers expect double-digit holiday sales increases

Michigan retailers have double-digit expectations for the upcoming holiday shopping season.

Three of every four retailers across the state - 75 percent expect increased sales over last year's season, according to the annual Michigan Retailers Association pre-holiday survey, conducted jointly with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Sales will increase by an average of 13 percent, the retailers project.

"Michigan retailers believe this will be a good shopping season, certainly much stronger than last year," said Larry Meyer, CEO of the Michigan Retailers Association and former Director of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Glenn has a date with destiny, Dearborn Fordson

Don't break out the bubbly, yet

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

The year was 1993.

Nov. 14, 1996

And it was the winter of Westland John Glenn's despair.

In that year, Glenn coach Chuck Gordon guided his Rockets all the way to the Pontiac Silverdome and only one team, Dearborn Fordson, stood in their way of winning the coveted Class AA state football championship.

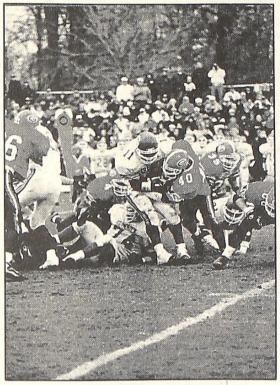

A then unknown Fordson freshman by the name of Kamal Jaafar came off the Tractor bench and scored what proved to be the winning touchdown in a heartbreaking (for Glenn) 12-7 Fordson victory over Glenn that gave coach Jeff Stergalas' Tractors the state crown.

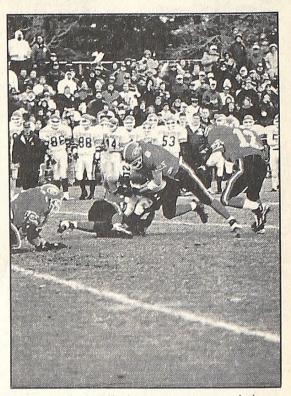

Last Saturday, it was Jaafar who almost single-handedly destroyed a previously undefeatable Clarkston team. The unstoppable senior running back scored three TDs, amassed more than 300-yards rushing to lead the Tractors to a 34-20 playoff victory over hosts, Clarkston.

The Fordson victory sets up Saturday's Region 3 championship game.

Rockets aerial attack rocks DCC's Shamrocks

By TOM MOORADIAN

MCN Staff Writer

Some have called them "The Comeback Kids"

Others say that "they are a second-half" team.

And, on Saturday, John Glenn proved they were both and staged another one of their astonishing second-half rallies to edge Detroit Catholic Central, 15-14, in a preregional showdown before one of the largest crowds to watch a high school football game at Glenn.

And you definitely don't want to know what DCC fans were calling the Rockets after their season-ending defeat.

Glenn's aerial attack, in the hands of junior quarterback Justin Berent, and some acrobatic catches by Lou Hartwig and David Jarrett, did it again. And the Shamrock secondary. Two key pass completions wreaked devastation upon the Shamrocks in the final five minutes of the game.

Trailing 14-9 midway in the fourth quarter after taking over on their own 20 via a DCC punt, the Rockets came back with a roar that resembled thunder that shook the 5,000plus filled stands.

With 5:28 left, Jarrett beat two defenders in the secondary and found the ball waiting for him over his right shoulder and made a diving catch that burst the Shamrocks' confidence to shreds.

But Jarrett's catch left the Rockets shy 34 yards of the Shamrock goal line. Three plays later, DCC's defense still was in control of their destiny.

Then, on a fourth and six situation, the Rockets pulled off an amazing, game-saving play that cracked the Shamrocks' secondary and sent the message that this is a Glenn team that fights back. That pass went something like this: Berent put the ball into the air and Hartwig got to it first, despite two defenders hanging on. The ball popped out of Hartwig's hands, but whether the ball was deflected or lateraled to Paul Merandi no one is saying - but Merandi grabbed the airborne ball and ketball standings was broken last week as league co-leader Taylor Center ousted Belleville with a 54-36 victory over coach Bob Mercer's Tihung on to it as he fell to his knees for the completion that kept the drive and the game alive.

Berent continued to seek an opening in the DCC secondary, but first sent sophomore running back Reggie Spearmon to test the Shamrock line. He was stopped in his tracks. He then tried another running play which was equally unsuccessful before he found Lou Hartwig alone in the end zone and fired the ball to the senior wingback for the decisive touchdown. The play covered 14-

It killed us. We were in it until that final period.

With less than two minutes remaining, Glenn elected to go for the two, despite the fact they had a sure point in Steve Paling, whose third- quarter, 22-yard field goal after a stalled Rocket drive kept Glenn alive.

The battle-weary Rockets failed to capitalize on the conversion, and the transition occurred with DCC taking over with a little less than two minutes left in the game.

Robichaud didn't even come close

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

For Robichaud and veteran coach Bob Yauck, 1996 was supposed to be a carbon copy of the unforgettable 1990 football season.

That was the year the Bulldogs were untouchable in Class B.

In that year of many firsts, Robichaud captured its first and only - state football championship. The 21-7 Robichaud victory over Kingsford at the Pontiac Silverdome also ended the phenomenal high school career of Tyrone Wheatley, who earned national prominence and a full-ride athletic scholarship to the University of Michigan where he set all sorts of Wolverine rushing records.

At the starts of the '96 campaign, Yauck said his team was as good as the 1990 team," Unfortunately, Yauck's prediction quickly dissipated after the first three games. In fact, in those three games Robichaud committed atypical 26 turnovers and was 0-3. But the Bulldogs did manage to come back and salvage a .500 record thanks to a 38-0 victory over a state-ranked Muskegon Heights team.

Where did the 1996 Bulldogs go wrong?

Yauck says he felt that "there was too much pressure put on these kids right at the beginning."

"We had high expectations. Unfortunately, and it happens, we got off to a bad start and they didn't really find their own until mid- season."

Those record-breaking 25 turnovers and ineptness on offense didn't help the Bulldogs any, either.

Ironically, Robichaud went on to beat some of the best teams in the state in the final weeks. But it was too late to salvage a playoff berth.

"If we had played anywhere near the way we played in those final weeks earlier in the season," Yauck noted, "we would still be alive in the title race."

Robichaud could come back tougher and stronger in 1997. Key personnel, such as Jason Malloy, who was hurt in the Highland Park game, will be back in the Robichaud lineup, and Yauck can build his franchise around the versatile ath-

Salem (17-3), Canton (16-4), and Northville (16-4) are all state- ranked in the top 10. Novi's team isn't ranked, but they are the proud holders of a 14-4 record, and Churchill has been improving over the last few weeks. These five teams will be featured at the district play-offs beginning Nov. 18 at Northville High School.

To prepare for the district play-offs, Blohm said his team will continue working hard. "We will organize a little better, and practice moving the ball to get it to the inside player," he said. "We really need to concentrate on that.'

Quarterback Darnell Steele also scored on a 39-yard pass to Raymond Cook and when Gray's connected on the 2-point conversion, the Bulldogs were out in front 16-0 at the end of one.

One of the oddest touchdowns in recent Robichaud history was recorded when the Muskegon Heights punter attempted to kick out of the end zone, but sent the ball straight up and into the waiting hands of Robichaud outside linebacker Justin Knox.

Knox was standing in the end zone and happened to look up to see the ball descend into his outstretched hands for the touchdown.

"I personally had never seen anything like it," said Yauck of the unexpected gift. "And I have been coaching for 27 years.

Gray and Cook combined for the two-point conversion.

Jackson scored on a 36-yard run and Gray broke loose on an off-tackle run from 39-yards out for the final touchdowns of the Robichaud season.

The rematch will put some astonishing players on both sides of the line. On offense - Glenn boasts an outstanding junior quarterback, Justin Berent, whose heroics and passing have helped earn the team the title of "Comeback Kids" of the year. He has a solid running back in soph Reggie Spearmon and a pair of glue-fingered receivers in David Jarrett and omnipresent Lou Hartwig.

Fordson also isn't a one-man show. The Tractors' tireless quarterback Carlos Smith can inflict pain and can exploit defenses. He put the clamps on a Clarkston team that some felt was headed for the Silverdome this year.

Of course, Jaafar has been unstoppable this season, leading the Tractors to the Mega Conference Red Division champion-

Each team has enough arsenal to blow each other to shreds, so look to the defense as the probable "decisive factor."

Belleville coach Bob LaPointe sees the match up between Glenn and Fordson as "a great match up of two outstanding coaches and teams.'

"This Fordson team is very physical not only on defense but on offense," said LaPointe. "But, from scouting reports, this Glenn team can match up with them and I would say has the edge when it comes to the skilled positions. One thing for sure, no team gets as far as these two have without talent."

Glenn and Fordson's date with destiny will commence at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Fordson, the reigning and undisputed Mega Conference, Red Division champ, and John Glenn, the undefeated Western Lakes Conference champ, are expected to draw another record crowd to the Rocket Stadium.

The Shamrocks immediately launched missile after missile in desperation. On their fourth try, they completed a pass-and-lateral combination which, however, came up short for the first down.

Catholic Central came into the battle ranked 10th in the state and with a 7-2 overall record including an impressive 26-0 shutout of Birmingham Brother Rice the Sunday before at the Pontiac Silverdome.

But it was Glenn that drew first blood as the Rockets marched 53-yards in eight plays and scored with Spearmon's two-yard plunge with 2:15 on the clock in the first quarter.

The fans saw a rare occurrence when Paling's attempt for the extra point hit the upright and bounced off. Glenn's defense shutout the Shamrocks in the first quarter and the entire second half. It was the second quarter that was the most damaging to the Rockets' defense. Elusive Joe Saah returned a Rocket punt 52 yards for a touchdown and Aaron Rock kicked the extra point to give the visitors a 7-6 lead. Just before the half, and on their next series, DCC appeared to have the game all locked up when senior running back Greg Alcala burst past the Rockets first line of defense, eluded the linebackers and raced 53-yards for the second DCC touchdown.

Glenn coach Chuck Gordon praised the overall performance of his team.

"I felt our kids played an exceptional game against an out-standing team," Gordon said. "Now we got to get ready for Fordson, and they will be as tough and even more physical than Catholic Central.'

Mercer, a 1964 Belleville alumnus who took a group of 16-year-olds to the 1991 AAU national championship, said that his Tigers will be a force to reckon with in the years to come.

Kilgore is only a freshman and her sister, Kristin, also a six-footer who is the eighth grade should be joining the team next year. With Golden (6-0), and junior forward Bethany Lape, a transfer out of Kentucky, along with 5-5 freshmen guard Ursula Walls, the Tigers have the makings of a championship squad.

These kids have the work ethics and the right attitude," said Mercer, who is finishing his eighth year as head coach. "It is going to be interesting to watch this team grow in the years to come."

The Pontiac Firebird Coupe (top) and the Firebird Formula with WS6 Ram Air Package (below) are both sporty, stylish and roomy, but its the Formula's power that makes it the reviewer's choice. MCN Special Photo

Sporty styling is Firebird feature in 1997 models

By KAREN STRONSKI Automotive Writer

In the past few weeks, I have had the wonderful opportunity of test driving not one, but two, Pontiac sports cars. A six-speed Formula and a Firebird that was an automatic. Which one did I like best? Well, that depends on if I were in the mood for speed or just a leisurely drive.

If you are the kind of person that likes to have fun while you're driving, choose the six-speed Formula. It has a WS6 Ram-Air package that throws you back in your seat like you are being launched out of a rocket. Needless to say, it is very sporty, stylish as well as roomy.

Some people don't like to drive a car with a manual transmission, so for them, there is the Firebird. It was an automatic, but was not nearly as fun to drive, not to mention the lack of power. Don't get me wrong, it had pick up, just not as much as the Formula. It also was very showy as well as spacious.

The room inside of both of these cars really surprised me. I didn't expect the passenger nor cargo space that both of these Pontiacs provided. Plenty of leg room and head room for comfort. Even the back seat could fit two comfortably. However, the Formula offered more in the way of merchandise payload.

Lets talk about the exterior.
Both the Firebird and Formula come with these standard features -- power rack and pinion steering, four outlet exhaust, driver and passenger air bags, four wheel power disc brakes, 16-inch aluminum wheels with locks and dual sport mirrors. I found the body lines on the Formula to be more defined, which in turn gave it a sleeker look.

If you are the kind of person that likes to have fun while you're driving, choose the six-speed Formula.

The interior of both these automobiles come standard with air conditioning, gauge package with tachometer, AM/FM radio w/cassette, clock, six speakers, keyless entry, cruise control and power everything. The seats in the Formula were a bit more comfortable and seemed to hug the body better. They also had a textured pattern with bits of color on them. Where as in the Firebird, everything was the same color, leaving it a little monotonous.

Leather seating as well as a compact disc player are options on both. The stereo system was superb in these cars. That surprised me considering that they were just standard General Motors' stereos. Nothing fancy, just good sound quality.

Well, there comes the part that you've all been waiting for, the price? As I've described both in the above paragraphs with all the standard features (approximately $26,000 for the Firebird and $30,000 for the Formula). Gas mileage — well, not the greatest! The Firebird got 12 city and 17 highway. The Formula, since it was a stick, was a little better. Not by much, though

These cars are for the true driving fanatics who demand the boldest combination of aggressive styling, outstanding performance and handling and exceptional value in a sports car.

Pontiac's competition includes the Toyoto Celica GT, Ford Mustang GT, Probe GT, Eagle Talon TSI and the Dodge Stealth.

The Formula I test drove was a WS6, 5.7 liter, fuel-injected, ram-air and the Firebird was a slower V6. Which one did I prefer? No doubt in my mind that it was the opensnouted, fire-breathing dragon. The Formula! This car is for the serious driving enthusiasts who want the response of an I-Ain't Kiddin' V8 when they press the accelerator.
